Mari Butler Abry, New Librarian

Ripley has a new librarian, Mari Butler Abry. Mari lives in Perry with her family. Before her employment at the Ripley Library, Mari worked in public education for ten years. She worked in Mount Pleasant, Iowa primarily as a high school English teacher, and most recently she was the district teacher librarian for the Perry Community School District.

When Mari was a girl, her favorite book series was Harry Potter. She reads all kinds of genres, but fantasy still holds a special place in her heart. Mari would love to chat with you about what you're reading!

Mari loves books and libraries, of course! She cannot wait to meet everyone in the community and get to know the town. You can find Mari at the Ripley Library typing away at the computer and shelving books merrily. Stop in!

Donations and Memorials

Thank you, Barbara Hartley, for donating books to the library. Thank you to the following individuals for donations in Connie Neese's memory: Jean Borgeson, Dale and DeeAnn Thompson, and Sharon Ulrich. Thank you, again, to Jean Borgeson for a donation in Dave Royce's memory. Ripley is such a generous community to our public library. We thank you!
